

Name _____

Date _____

Fact or opinion?

Do children watch too much television?

Children definitely watch too much television these days. A recent survey showed that quite young children are watching over four hours of television a day. This is obviously damaging to their health. Everyone knows that children today take far less exercise and the television must be to blame. There is nothing worth watching anyway and children who watch television don't do well at school. It's a fact that children who watch television don't read. They see bad behaviour on the television and this makes them immediately go out and do the same. The advertisements for toys and food tempt them and they're not satisfied until they get what they want. We must stop our children from watching this dreadful machine.

Fact

Opinion

I can identify a persuasive argument.

I can tell the difference between fact or opinion.