

Do you sometimes worry that your life isn't epic enough, because you've not already gone on a space mission or run three back-to-back marathons? Never fear! If you're the sort of person who might occasionally let someone eat the last biscuit in the packet, you might very well be an Ordinary Legend. Take our quiz to see if you qualify for this legendary status:

QUESTIONS

1) THE WASHING UP IS SITTING AROUND AFTER DINNER. WHAT DO YOU DO?

- A. Balance every single piece of crockery in a stack on your head.
- B. Throw all the dishes in the air and howl with laughter as they shatter.
- C. Wash the dishes, this time.
- D. Leave the dishes sitting around for your imaginary pony to lick clean.

2) YOU NOTICE YOUR BED IS STILL UNMADE. YOUR NEXT MOVE IS TO:

- A. Sit cross-legged in the middle of it, close your eyes and practice levitation.
- B. Invite all your mates around and bounce so hard on the bed that the springs pop out.
- C. Neatly flip the duvet back over the bed so no one sees your stash of books, comics and biscuits underneath it.
- D. Dreamily wish you slept in a barn with a pony. Fresh hay smells so nice.

3) YOU OPEN THE BISCUIT TIN TO FIND THERE'S ONLY ONE BISCUIT LEFT - AND IT'S YOUR FAVOURITE KIND! YOU:

- A. Jump up and down on the biscuit tin until it's completely flattened.
- B. Run around the house showing everyone there's only one biscuit left, then gobble it in front of them, spraying crumbs as you bellow MWA-HA-HA like a supervillain.
- C. Ask around to see if anyone else would like it, secretly hoping they'll all say no.
- D. Stash it in a secret place in your bedroom in case you meet any hungry ponies who might wander in.

4) YOU WAKE UP ONE MORNING TO FIND YOUR ENTIRE TOWN HAS FLOODED! WHAT DO YOU DO?

- A. Turn on all the taps in your house to get the water to rise even higher! A flood means no school, after all...
- B. Paddle about in it squealing 'EEP! EEP! EEP! EEP!' in sheer joy.
- C. Quickly inflate a life raft and paddle about, rescuing as many people you can by ferrying them to dry ground.
- D. Swim over to the local stables to check the local ponies are all right.

5) SOMEONE IN YOUR CLASS IS BEING BULLIED BECAUSE THEY FAILED A CLASS TEST. YOU HAPPEN TO WALK BY AS A BULLY SAYS SOMETHING PARTICULARLY NASTY. WHAT DO YOU DO?

- A. Pull down your trousers and moon the bully as a glorious distraction.
- B. Grab all your friends and pile at least fifteen of them on top of the bully, screeching at the top of your lungs as you pick through the bully's hair for edible nits.
- C. Defend the person or, if the bully's too dangerous, find a grownup who can help.
- D. Imagine how you could charge into battle against the bully if only you had a proper warhorse and backup cavalry.

6) YOUR OLDER SIBLING HAS A SIGN ON THEIR DOOR FORBIDDING YOU FROM ENTERING. WHAT DO YOU DO?

- A. Build a booby trap for when they come out.
- B. Screech and hammer wildly on the door with your fists so they will know you love them and have not forgotten about them.
- C. Make a snack for both of you and knock on their door to see if they want some. (And then eat their share if they don't.)
- D. Make clip-clop noises with coconut shells in the hallway so they will think there's a pony and come out to look.

RESULTS

Mostly A: You're a legend, but possibly not an ordinary one. The people who look after you, however, are absolute legends.

Mostly B: Why are you even doing this? You're a cheeky sea monkey, monkeys don't take tests!

Mostly C: Congratulations! You are officially an Ordinary Legend and a perfect candidate for a role as hero in a Reeve & McIntyre novel. You'll have exciting adventures and be well-equipped to tackle them.

Mostly D: You really need your own pony, don't you? Take these results to your parents or guardian and tell them that Reeve & McIntyre say you need a pony. Failing that, a book about a roly-polly flying pony (named Kevin) might do.

